NBCOS/ASOP and its credentialing/certification examinations is/are intended to support and enhance the care of the orthopedic patient during the orthopedic physician-patient care experience. Information has been authored and peer-reviewed by subject matter experts in the field and reflects current evidence and research.

The rapid pace of innovation and constant change in health care is evident in the physician practice and operating room, urgent care facilities, emergency departments etc. where patient safety and outcomes are closely scrutinized. Changes in best practices are inevitable as current strategies are replaced by those with better results. Individual providers, teams, and facilities are accountable for using their own knowledge and expertise when determining the course of action in a patient care situation. NBCOS/ASOP disclaims any and all liability or damages resulting to any individual for claims, which may arise from the knowledge use detailed by any healthcare provider, whether these claims be asserted by a physician, other clinician/provider, or any other person.

Any value added certification/examination offered by NBCOS/ASOP may facilitate a dynamic and evolving role for the Athletic Trainer that is responsive to consumer and societal needs, to system changes, and to emerging knowledge and research. Although the aforementioned may be a resource to augment state statutes and regulations that govern the practice of Athletic Training, such does not supersede existing laws and other regulatory requirements. Athletic Trainers are required to abide by relevant statutes and regulations.

The orthopedic practice, hospital, urgent care and surgical centers should specify the privileges, role, and responsibilities for each practitioner. Furthermore, the organization should establish qualifications, criteria, and credentialing process when granting specific privileges. Athletic Trainers or any other healthcare provider who are additionally credentialed by the NBCOS/ASOP are required to abide by their local rules/guidelines, relevant statutes and regulations for both state licensed and unlicensed certifications.
